THE NIGHT TRAIN

A deck for the player, not the promise

On a warm night a train goes nowhere in particular, and two men too tired to sleep take turns looking at the dark. One of them has made a life of reading faces, and of knowing the cards by the way they are held. He is out of words before he is out of advice. What he leaves is not a system for getting rich. It is four verbs and one ace worth keeping. The song is Don Schlitz's, made famous by Kenny Rogers in 1978. This book does not reprint it. It keeps the ethic.

Know when to hold. Know when to fold. Know when to walk away. Know when to run. Do not count your money while you are sitting at the table. Every hand is a winner and a loser. The secret of surviving is knowing what to throw away and what to keep. Somewhere in the dark the gambler breaks even. The ace is the rule you carry off the train.

This Table Oracle sets those verbs on the Mystic52 lattice. Omega gave the cards their sky: element, gate, function, counsel, shadow. The Amalgam gave them paths, races, and the cut between natural and artificial divination. The Ultimate edition braided nine registers. Here the same cards sit down. Spades read. Hearts keep their nerve. Diamonds refuse to count the money while the deal is live. Clubs act, and know when the act is over.

What the manual is, and is not

Four records sit under this book. Schlitz gives the ethic. David Sklansky's Theory of Poker gives the spine of decision: poker is incomplete information, and you gain when an opponent plays differently from the way they would play if they could see your cards. Noga Alon's study of toy Hold'em shows why a small edge, repeated, becomes the night: skill is real, and over many hands it dominates chance. Frank R. Wallace's Poker: A Guaranteed Income for Life offers a hard claim and a hundred and twenty 'advanced concepts.' Some of that claim is discipline, game selection, and emotional control. Some of it is a promise of riches. Some of it leaves the table entirely.

This compendium keeps the honest core and refuses the rest as method. There is no instruction here in collusion, flashing, stacking, seeing unexposed cards, hypnotic manipulation, or the deliberate ruin of a table. Wallace himself notes that a few of his concepts are immoral because they leave the game, and that a good player does not need them. The Gambler's answer to a crooked game is the fourth verb. You run. Guaranteed income is not on offer. An oracle advises attention. It does not replace a limit you can afford, a clear head, or the law of the house you are in.

Four verbs

Verb	When	Mystic seat
Hold	The price is right and the hand can stand the next street.	Sixes, eights, kings in position
Fold	The story is pretty and the fraction is not.	Twos, fives, most early aces that are not aces
Walk	The edge has thinned, you are tired, or the hour is done.	Nines, tens, the queen of hearts
Run	The game is crooked, the stake is rent, or tilt has the chair.	Black joker, any five that names a chase

Hold is not stubbornness. Fold is not fear. Walk is not an insult. Run is not a negotiation. Most ruined nights confuse the four.

Skill, chance, and the long night

Alon treats the legal argument — skill or chance — as a mathematical one. In simplified Hold'em, a player who prices the decision against an opponent who acts at random already holds a positive expectation on the single hand. The variance of that hand is larger than the edge. One deal can go either way. The Central Limit Theorem is the quiet ace: as the hands accumulate, the average is pulled toward the edge, and skill, not the last river, decides the sequence. That is why every hand is a winner and a loser, and why the secret is still what you throw away. A single call does not crown you. A hundred correct folds do.

The same paper notes what the table already knows. A strategy that wins against one player can lose against another. Number of opponents, position, and the need to remain unpredictable all belong to skill. There is no honour in pretending the cards are fate, and no honesty in pretending a short session has proved your edge.

The fundamental theorem, at the table

Sklansky's theorem is the spade of this book. If all cards were showing, there would be a correct play. Every time you play a hand differently from that hidden correct play, they gain. Every time they play differently from the way they would play if they could see yours, you gain. A mistake in this sense is not always bad poker. It is a departure from the play the exposed cards would have demanded. Sometimes the pot is large enough that calling with the worse hand is correct. Sometimes a bluff gains because the correct answer to it was a raise you did not receive.

Use it as a question, not a slogan. What would I do if I could see their cards? What am I inducing them to do that they would not do if they could see mine? If your line makes their correct play more likely, you are paying for information you have already given away.

Deception is licensed inside the rules. It is not licensed outside them.

A second caution from the same art: it is sometimes right to play 'incorrectly' on purpose when the opponent is weak and short, or when you yourself are short. Do not push a small edge to the point where one cooler ends the night. You have reduced the hourly rate and purchased survival. The Gambler would call that knowing what to keep.

Odds, outs, and the price of a call

Hand rank follows frequency. In five cards there are 2,598,960 equally likely hands. The rarest is the royal flush, four of them. Then straight flush 36, four of a kind 624, full house 3,744, flush 5,108, straight 10,200, three of a kind 54,912, two pair 123,552, one pair 1,098,240, high card 1,302,540. Seven-card Hold'em hands are more numerous still, 133,784,560 of them, and the best five are what count. Familiarity with these orders is necessary and not sufficient. The player who can name the rank and cannot name the price is still guessing.

Draw, after the flop	Clean outs	Rough equity to river	Call if the pot offers
Flush draw	9	about 35 percent	a little under 2 to 1
Open-ended straight	8	about 32 percent	a little over 2 to 1
Gutshot	4	about 16 percent	better than 5 to 1
Two overcards, live	6	about 24 percent	better than 3 to 1
Flush draw plus overcard	12	about 45 percent	a little over even

A working estimate, not a sacrament: on the flop, outs times four is the rough chance you improve by the river; on the turn, outs times two is the rough chance on the river. Discount outs that lose to a full house or a better flush. Pot odds are the call divided into the pot you can win, including the call. If your chance is greater than that fraction, the call is a purchase. If it is not, it is a tip. Implied odds — money you may win later — are real only against a player who will pay, and only if you will still be in the hand to collect.

Position, ante, and the streets

All poker begins as a struggle for the antes. With no ante, a good player waits for the nuts and the game dies. With an absurd ante, any two cards are a ticket and the game becomes a toss. Between them: the smaller the blind relative to future bets, the tighter you start; the larger the blind, the more hands you may see. Early position is a tax. The button is a discount. Defend the small blind less often than your pride suggests.

Preflop, throw away what you will not play on a bad flop. On the flop, bet for value or as a semi-bluff with a way to improve; do not bet because it is your turn. On the turn, the price doubles in spirit even when the bet does not: fewer cards remain, and a call that was close is now a fold. On the river, bluff rarely and into players who can fold. Value-bet the hands that worse hands will call. Check the hands that only better hands continue with.

Risk, rake, and the money you do not count

The song's hardest line is practical. Counting the stack at the table changes your hands: you tighten when you should value-bet, and you loosen when you are behind. There will be time enough when the dealing is done. Name the rake before you sit. A capped rake in a small game can eat the edge Alon describes. If the tax is larger than your advantage over the field, the correct play is to walk, however good your reads.

A session has three numbers, written before the first hand: the buy-in, the stop-loss, the time. A working stop is two or three buy-ins, or a clock, whichever comes first. Winning is also a stop. The player who stays to 'play well' after the edge has left is counting money in disguise. No-limit asks for a deeper roll than limit. If the stake is money you cannot lose without harm, you are not gambling. You are spending. Run.

Rank at the table

Rank	Tree and race	Table verb
Ace	Initiator · Keter · Gold	The ace you can keep.
2	Balancer · Chokmah · Gold	Hold or fold. The first altar is a choice.
3	Creator · Binah · Silver	Position appears. Three players make a pot.
4	Stabiliser · Chesed · Silver	Give the session a house: stakes, stop, rule.
5	Catalyst · Geburah · Bronze	The bad beat. Friction is a teacher if you do not chase it.
6	Harmoniser · Tiferet · Bronze	A fair call. Exchange without theatre.
7	Seer · Netzach · Heroic	Read the face before you read the board.
8	Propeller · Hod · Heroic	Pace. Skill is repetition after the glamour leaves.
9	Completer · Yesod · Iron	The harvest. Do not count it at the table.
10	Transcender · Malkuth · Iron	The gate. Know when the night is finished.

Rank	Tree and race	Table verb
Jack	Messenger · Path-walker · Watcher	A tell crosses the table. Hear it before you edit it.
Queen	Matriarch · Shekhinah · Watcher	Patience keeps the room. Nerve is not noise.
King	Patriarch · Sovereign · Watcher	Command of the action. Authority that can still fold.

Spreads before you sit, and after

The train. Three cards. The night you are actually in. The face across from you. The ace you can keep. If the third card is a shadow, the ace is a fold.

The table. Five cards. Position, hand, tell, price, exit. Read them in that order. Most disasters reverse it and start with the exit they refuse.

Hold and fold. Two cards. The first is the reason to stay. The second is the reason to leave the hand. If the second is clearer, fold. Do not average them into a timid call.

Walk or run. One card, asked only when the night feels wrong. A court or a ten may be a walk. A five of clubs, a black joker, or any card that names dishonesty is a run. Then you do not negotiate with the card.

SPADES

Read · Air · Yetzirah · Formation*Suit plate of Spades.*

Spades are the incomplete information of the game. Sklansky's art is theirs: fill the gap in what the betting says, and do not give away more than you mean to. They are artificial divination — a rule you can state.

Gates, in wheel order: Gemini, Libra, Aquarius. Ace, Four, Seven, Ten and King share the first. Two, Five, Eight and Jack share the second. Three, Six, Nine and Queen share the third.

Ace of SpadesInitiator · Keter · Gemini · Gold raceHold the question, not the hand.*

Before you look at the hole cards, name the game: who is loose, who is tight, what the ante is worth. The ace you keep is this habit.

Shadow: beginning a session to avoid deciding whether you should be here.

Table verb of the rank: The ace you can keep. Suit office: Read. If the price and the verb disagree, obey the verb.

2 of Spades

Balancer · Chokmah · Libra · Gold race

Fold the pretty story.

Two readings, both possible. If you cannot say which is more likely from the betting, you do not have a read. Check or fold. Do not invent a tell to justify a call.

Shadow: equilibrium as an excuse not to choose.

Table verb of the rank: Hold or fold. The first altar is a choice. Suit office: Read. If the price and the verb disagree, obey the verb.

3 of Spades

Creator · Binah · Aquarius · Silver race

Position is the third card.

In a three-handed pot the player who acts last holds the information. Early position narrows your starting hands. The button widens them. Write the seat before you write the hand.

Shadow: a diagram of position that you do not obey.

Table verb of the rank: Position appears. Three players make a pot. Suit office: Read. If the price and the verb disagree, obey the verb.

4 of Spades

Stabiliser · Chesed · Gemini · Silver race

Give the read a house.

A tell is not a read until it has repeated. Note the player who bets fast when weak and slow when strong, then wait for the second showing. One flash is not a system.

Shadow: a notebook that replaces attention.

Table verb of the rank: Give the session a house: stakes, stop, rule. Suit office: Read. If the price and the verb disagree, obey the verb.

5 of Spades

Catalyst · Geburah · Libra · Bronze race

The contradiction is the tell.

When the story and the size disagree, believe the size. A small bet into a scare card is often a question, not a value bet. Do not call to resolve your curiosity.

Shadow: friction enjoyed for its own sake.

Table verb of the rank: The bad beat. Friction is a teacher if you do not chase it. Suit office: Read. If the price and the verb disagree, obey the verb.

6 of Spades

Harmoniser · Tiferet · Aquarius · Bronze race

Many faces, one figure.

Multi-way, the Fundamental Theorem bends. You may want a worse hand to call and a draw to fold. Name both opponents before you bet. One story for two players is a leak.

Shadow: peace bought by checking the best hand.

Table verb of the rank: A fair call. Exchange without theatre. Suit office: Read. If the price and the verb disagree, obey the verb.

7 of Spades

Seer · Netzach · Gemini · Heroic race

Natural read, then the rule.

The face arrives first. Then state it: what would they do if they could see your cards? If your line makes that correct play more likely, change the line.

Shadow: a hunch you will not write down.

Table verb of the rank: Read the face before you read the board. Suit office: Read. If the price and the verb disagree, obey the verb.

8 of Spades

Propeller · Hod · Libra · Heroic race

Speed is not a read.

Late streets reward the player who has already ranked the range. Do not accelerate because the table is waiting. A fast fold is skill. A fast call is often costume.

Shadow: velocity mistaken for verdict.

Table verb of the rank: Pace. Skill is repetition after the glamour leaves. Suit office: Read. If the price and the verb disagree, obey the verb.

9 of Spades

Completer · Yesod · Aquarius · Iron race

Harvest the sentence.

At showdown, say what you thought they had. If you were wrong, the hand taught you. If you were right and still lost, the price was the teacher, not the read.

Shadow: a clever sentence that did not pay.

Table verb of the rank: The harvest. Do not count it at the table. Suit office: Read. If the price and the verb disagree, obey the verb.

10 of Spades

Transcender · Malkuth · Gemini · Iron race

The read becomes a rule you can leave with.

What you teach yourself tonight will outlive the clever bluff. Write one leak. That is the legacy of air. Then stop looking at the cards.

Shadow: teaching the table your pattern.

Table verb of the rank: The gate. Know when the night is finished. Suit office: Read. If the price and the verb disagree, obey the verb.

Jack of Spades

Messenger · Path-walker · Libra · Watcher race

Hear the tell before you edit it.

A messenger crosses: a glance at chips, a reach, a sigh. Receive it. Do not decorate it into the hand you want. Then decide.

Shadow: news you only believe when it agrees with you.

Table verb of the rank: A tell crosses the table. Hear it before you edit it. Suit office: Read. If the price and the verb disagree, obey the verb.

Queen of Spades

Matriarch · Shekhinah · Aquarius · Watcher race

She keeps the range.

Patience in air is the refusal to narrow too soon. Hold a wide, honest range of what they can have. The queen folds the bottom of it without drama.

Shadow: discernment that has become cruelty, or delay.

Table verb of the rank: Patience keeps the room. Nerve is not noise. Suit office: Read. If the price and the verb disagree, obey the verb.

King of Spades

Patriarch · Sovereign · Gemini · Watcher race

Clear speech made law.

When you bet, know the story you are telling. Authority at the table is a line that can be questioned. If the king cannot fold to a reraise, he is not a king.

Shadow: a speech you cannot take back.

Table verb of the rank: Command of the action. Authority that can still fold. Suit office: Read. If the price and the verb disagree, obey the verb.

HEARTS

Nerve · Water · Briah · Creation*Suit plate of Hearts.*

Hearts are the face, the tilt, and the vow you make to yourself before the first deal. Natural divination lives here: the quiet that arrives before the rule. Nerve is not a bluff. It is the refusal to chase a feeling.

Gates, in wheel order: Cancer, Scorpio, Pisces. Ace, Four, Seven, Ten and King share the first. Two, Five, Eight and Jack share the second. Three, Six, Nine and Queen share the third.

Ace of HeartsInitiator · Keter · Cancer · Gold raceBegin the feeling before you name the player.*

Notice the body before the cards: hunger, fatigue, the wish to seem brave. If the wish is louder than the price, do not sit down.

Shadow: a session started to soothe a mood.

Table verb of the rank: The ace you can keep. Suit office: Nerve. If the price and the verb disagree, obey the verb.

2 of Hearts

Balancer · Chokmah · Scorpio · Gold race

Two cups. Choose the vow that holds at dawn.

One vow is the stop-loss. The other is the wish to get even. Only one of them is still true when you are tired. Fold the second.

Shadow: an oath made to the table instead of to yourself.

Table verb of the rank: Hold or fold. The first altar is a choice. Suit office: Nerve. If the price and the verb disagree, obey the verb.

3 of Hearts

Creator · Binah · Pisces · Silver race

Make the feast before the doctrine.

A friendly game is still a priced game. Kindness is not a call. You may like the people and still throw the hand away.

Shadow: kinship used as a reason to pay.

Table verb of the rank: Position appears. Three players make a pot. Suit office: Nerve. If the price and the verb disagree, obey the verb.

4 of Hearts

Stabiliser · Chesed · Cancer · Silver race

Four walls of nerve.

Sanctuary is a stop, a time, a drink you do not need, a seat you can leave. Build them before the cards come. Safety is not numbness.

Shadow: a locked room you call discipline.

Table verb of the rank: Give the session a house: stakes, stop, rule. Suit office: Nerve. If the price and the verb disagree, obey the verb.

5 of Hearts

Catalyst · Geburah · Scorpio · Bronze race

Grief is a teacher, not a seat.

The bad beat hurts. That is not a warrant to reload. One cup still stands: the session limit. Drink that, not the next buy-in.

Shadow: mourning spent as chips.

Table verb of the rank: The bad beat. Friction is a teacher if you do not chase it. Suit office: Nerve. If the price and the verb disagree, obey the verb.

6 of Hearts

Harmoniser · Tiferet · Pisces · Bronze race

Memory returns as a gift.

You have been here before. The player who tilts, the street where you chase. Exchange the memory for a fold. That is the repair.

Shadow: nostalgia for a pot you should have left.

Table verb of the rank: A fair call. Exchange without theatre. Suit office: Nerve. If the price and the verb disagree, obey the verb.

7 of Hearts

Seer · Netzach · Cancer · Heroic race

The dream is counsel, not a warrant.

A feeling that the river will come is natural divination. Write it, then price it. If the outs do not pay, the dream stays in the jar.

Shadow: a hunch promoted to a destiny.

Table verb of the rank: Read the face before you read the board. Suit office: Nerve. If the price and the verb disagree, obey the verb.

8 of Hearts

Propeller · Hod · Scorpio · Heroic race

Leave the almost-enough.

The mountain is the feeling you have been postponing: that you are tired, behind, or angry. Momentum in the heart is usually tilt. Stand up.

Shadow: speed used to outrun a feeling.

Table verb of the rank: Pace. Skill is repetition after the glamour leaves. Suit office: Nerve. If the price and the verb disagree, obey the verb.

9 of Hearts

Completer · Yesod · Pisces · Iron race

Wish ripens. Do not spend it on display.

Contentment is a tell if you perform it, and a leak if you play through it. Enjoy a won session by ending it.

Shadow: a wish displayed as a stack.

Table verb of the rank: The harvest. Do not count it at the table. Suit office: Nerve. If the price and the verb disagree, obey the verb.

10 of Hearts

Transcender · Malkuth · Cancer · Iron race

A house of kinship is not a bankroll.

What you shelter — a friend, a stake, a story about being the player — becomes the inheritance. Do not house it in the pot.

Shadow: loyalty that cannot walk away.

Table verb of the rank: The gate. Know when the night is finished. Suit office: Nerve. If the price and the verb disagree, obey the verb.

Jack of Hearts

Messenger · Path-walker · Scorpio · Watcher race

News of the heart. Receive it.

Irritation, shame, the urge to prove. The messenger is you. Hear it before you interpret the opponent. Then fold or breathe, in that order.

Shadow: a feeling blamed on the dealer.

Table verb of the rank: A tell crosses the table. Hear it before you edit it. Suit office: Nerve. If the price and the verb disagree, obey the verb.

Queen of Hearts

Matriarch · Shekhinah · Pisces · Watcher race

She holds the tide without flooding the room.

Emotional sovereignty is the long fold. She does not narrate her pain and she does not pay to end it. Nerve, kept.

Shadow: composure as a costume over tilt.

Table verb of the rank: Patience keeps the room. Nerve is not noise. Suit office: Nerve. If the price and the verb disagree, obey the verb.

King of Hearts

Patriarch · Sovereign · Cancer · Watcher race

Feeling commanded, not suppressed.

The cup is a sceptre only when it can be set down. Command is the ability to quit while ahead and while behind. Both are the same skill.

Shadow: control that has become silence and then explosion.

Table verb of the rank: Command of the action. Authority that can still fold. Suit office: Nerve. If the price and the verb disagree, obey the verb.

DIAMONDS

Price · Earth · Assiah · Making*Suit plate of Diamonds.*

Diamonds are the pot, the rake, the buy-in, and the money you do not count while the deal is live. They audit. A call is a purchase. If the price is wrong, the hand is already lost.

Gates, in wheel order: Taurus, Virgo, Capricorn. Ace, Four, Seven, Ten and King share the first. Two, Five, Eight and Jack share the second. Three, Six, Nine and Queen share the third.

Ace of DiamondsInitiator · Keter · Taurus · Gold raceSeed the work in a number.*

Name the buy-in, the stop, and the game you can afford to lose. A vision of winning is not a bankroll. The ace of earth is a limit written down.

Shadow: a dream of income with no stake behind it.

Table verb of the rank: The ace you can keep. Suit office: Price. If the price and the verb disagree, obey the verb.

2 of Diamonds

Balancer · Chokmah · Virgo · Gold race

Two resources. Juggle only what you can put down.

Time and money. If either is borrowed from rent, food, or a promise, you are already in the wrong game. Fold the session.

Shadow: a rhythm of reloads.

Table verb of the rank: Hold or fold. The first altar is a choice. Suit office: Price. If the price and the verb disagree, obey the verb.

3 of Diamonds

Creator · Binah · Capricorn · Silver race

A schedule kept is a form of prayer.

Short sessions, counted in hands or hours, beat the open night. Labour becomes structure. The dealer's tray is not your clock.

Shadow: a plan you abandon at the first loss.

Table verb of the rank: Position appears. Three players make a pot. Suit office: Price. If the price and the verb disagree, obey the verb.

4 of Diamonds

Stabiliser · Chesed · Taurus · Silver race

Fence, repair, save.

The bankroll is a house. A common working fence is twenty to forty buy-ins for the stake you play, more if the game is no-limit and you are still learning. Security is spiritual when it is not a hiding from the table you should leave.

Shadow: a fence so high you never play, or so low it is theatre.

Table verb of the rank: Give the session a house: stakes, stop, rule. Suit office: Price. If the price and the verb disagree, obey the verb.

5 of Diamonds

Catalyst · Geburah · Virgo · Bronze race

The account is shaken.

A downswing is iron-age weather, not a verdict on your soul. Cut stakes before you cut the truth. Do not chase the number back in one night.

Shadow: an audit refused.

Table verb of the rank: The bad beat. Friction is a teacher if you do not chase it. Suit office: Price. If the price and the verb disagree, obey the verb.

6 of Diamonds

Harmoniser · Tiferet · Capricorn · Bronze race

Fair exchange. Price the call.

Pot odds are the bridge. Call if your chance of winning is better than the price of the call against the pot you can win. If you cannot say the fraction, fold.

Shadow: a call made because the pot looks large.

Table verb of the rank: A fair call. Exchange without theatre. Suit office: Price. If the price and the verb disagree, obey the verb.

7 of Diamonds

Seer · Netzach · Taurus · Heroic race

Appraise before you spend the answer.

Count outs, then discount them for the times you are already beaten. A flush draw is not nine outs if the board is paired and the bet is a shove. Waiting is part of the craft.

Shadow: a precise sum in service of a wish.

Table verb of the rank: Read the face before you read the board. Suit office: Price. If the price and the verb disagree, obey the verb.

8 of Diamonds

Propeller · Hod · Virgo · Heroic race

Repetition is the altar.

The same correct fold, a hundred times, is the hourly rate. Skill arrives after the glamour leaves. Do not change the stake to feel the session.

Shadow: grinding as avoidance of a life.

Table verb of the rank: Pace. Skill is repetition after the glamour leaves. Suit office: Price. If the price and the verb disagree, obey the verb.

9 of Diamonds

Completer · Yesod · Capricorn · Iron race

Do not count the harvest at the table.

There will be time enough when the dealing is done. Stacking, announcing, or mentally spending the pot is a tell and a leak. Enjoy it later.

Shadow: a harvest spent before it is in the pocket.

Table verb of the rank: The harvest. Do not count it at the table. Suit office: Price. If the price and the verb disagree, obey the verb.

10 of Diamonds

Transcender · Malkuth · Taurus · Iron race

What you build will outlive the mood.

The inheritance is the limit you kept. Choose it while you are calm. A ten of diamonds is the walk: the night has paid or it has not, and either way the gate is shut.

Shadow: an estate wagered to prove it is yours.

Table verb of the rank: The gate. Know when the night is finished. Suit office: Price. If the price and the verb disagree, obey the verb.

Jack of Diamonds

Messenger · Path-walker · Virgo · Watcher race

A practical offer. Price it.

A proposition bet, a straddle, a last-hand bonus. The younger hand says yes too fast. Ask what it costs if you lose. Then decide.

Shadow: an apprenticeship in leaking.

Table verb of the rank: A tell crosses the table. Hear it before you edit it. Suit office: Price. If the price and the verb disagree, obey the verb.

Queen of Diamonds

Matriarch · Shekhinah · Capricorn · Watcher race

She knows the price and the reason.

Steward of the buy-in. She will call a priced draw and fold a pretty pair. Provision is care. The rake is named aloud, because it is a tax on every pot.

Shadow: thrift that never bets a value hand.

Table verb of the rank: Patience keeps the room. Nerve is not noise. Suit office: Price. If the price and the verb disagree, obey the verb.

King of Diamonds

Patriarch · Sovereign · Taurus · Watcher race

Authority that can be audited.

Lead by the number, not the announcement. If the king cannot show his session result to a sober morning, the command was theatre.

Shadow: empire talk over a short roll.

Table verb of the rank: Command of the action. Authority that can still fold. Suit office: Price. If the price and the verb disagree, obey the verb.

CLUBS

Act · Fire · Atziluth · Emanation*Suit plate of Clubs.*

Clubs are the bet, the raise, the semi-bluff, and the moment the act must stop. The spark is natural. The rite is taught. Courage without a stop is the bronze race, busy with conflict and eating no corn.

Gates, in wheel order: Aries, Leo, Sagittarius. Ace, Four, Seven, Ten and King share the first. Two, Five, Eight and Jack share the second. Three, Six, Nine and Queen share the third.

Ace of ClubsInitiator · Keter · Aries · Gold raceThe spark consents to a body.*

Action begins when there is a reason: value, protection, or a bluff with a plan for the next street. Courage is not the first bet of a bored night.

Shadow: a spark lit to feel alive.

Table verb of the rank: The ace you can keep. Suit office: Act. If the price and the verb disagree, obey the verb.

2 of Clubs

Balancer · Chokmah · Leo · Gold race

Two fires. Which still warms at dawn?

Bet or check. One is the hand. The other is the audience. Choose the one that is still correct if nobody is watching.

Shadow: heat chosen because it is heat.

Table verb of the rank: Hold or fold. The first altar is a choice. Suit office: Act. If the price and the verb disagree, obey the verb.

3 of Clubs

Creator · Binah · Sagittarius · Silver race

Aim, then walk.

A semi-bluff has two ways to win: they fold, or you improve. If neither is real, it is not a semi-bluff. It is a donation. State both ways before you raise.

Shadow: a journey announced and not priced.

Table verb of the rank: Position appears. Three players make a pot. Suit office: Act. If the price and the verb disagree, obey the verb.

4 of Clubs

Stabiliser · Chesed · Aries · Silver race

Joy given a rite.

Aggression wants a hearth: position, a scare card, a range that can stand a reraise. Build the feast so the fire has a stop. Then you may raise.

Shadow: celebration as a leak.

Table verb of the rank: Give the session a house: stakes, stop, rule. Suit office: Act. If the price and the verb disagree, obey the verb.

5 of Clubs

Catalyst · Geburah · Leo · Bronze race

Ego meets a mirror that does not flatter.

You were reraised. The clash is information. Fold the hand that was a performance. The name you answer to is not in the pot.

Shadow: a war with a player instead of a decision.

Table verb of the rank: The bad beat. Friction is a teacher if you do not chase it. Suit office: Act. If the price and the verb disagree, obey the verb.

6 of Clubs

Harmoniser · Tiferet · Sagittarius · Bronze race

Take the laurel and hand half back to the road.

A won bluff is not a style. Recognition is dangerous. Return to the ordinary value bet. The table has seen you.

Shadow: a laurel spent on the next bluff.

Table verb of the rank: A fair call. Exchange without theatre. Suit office: Act. If the price and the verb disagree, obey the verb.

7 of Clubs

Seer · Netzach · Aries · Heroic race

Hold the line that is yours.

Not every battle is yours. The ones that are, you do not outsource to hope. If you are bluffing, be willing to be called. If you are not, do not pretend.

Shadow: a stand made because leaving feels small.

Table verb of the rank: Read the face before you read the board. Suit office: Act. If the price and the verb disagree, obey the verb.

8 of Clubs

Propeller · Hod · Leo · Heroic race

Do not brake a flame that has found its lane.

When the range is ahead and the price is right, bet. Swiftess here is value, not tilt. If the lane was anger, brake.

Shadow: synchronicity used as a shove.

Table verb of the rank: Pace. Skill is repetition after the glamour leaves. Suit office: Act. If the price and the verb disagree, obey the verb.

9 of Clubs

Completer · Yesod · Sagittarius · Iron race

The last mile. Fatigue is not failure.

Guard the flame: one more orbit of the button is not a destiny. The summit of a session is a discipline away, and it is usually the door.

Shadow: endurance worshipped.

Table verb of the rank: The harvest. Do not count it at the table. Suit office: Act. If the price and the verb disagree, obey the verb.

10 of Clubs

Transcender · Malkuth · Aries · Iron race

The weight of the light you asked for.

Duty, legacy, the good burden of a lead. Do not dramatise it into a bigger game. Transmute pressure into a smaller stake or a walk.

Shadow: the good burden used as a reason to continue.

Table verb of the rank: The gate. Know when the night is finished. Suit office: Act. If the price and the verb disagree, obey the verb.

Jack of Clubs

Messenger · Path-walker · Leo · Watcher race

Let the new fire be seen, once.

A young bluff, a performance, a spark. Show it rarely. Announcement is not a strategy. The jack acts, then returns to the range.

Shadow: a performance that needed an audience.

Table verb of the rank: A tell crosses the table. Hear it before you edit it. Suit office: Act. If the price and the verb disagree, obey the verb.

Queen of Clubs

Matriarch · Shekhinah · Sagittarius · Watcher race

Vision with a generous hand.

She teaches by heat and humour, and she can check the nuts to let a worse hand bet. Generosity here is a price, not a mood. If the price is wrong, she bets.

Shadow: humour that hides a chase.

Table verb of the rank: Patience keeps the room. Nerve is not noise. Suit office: Act. If the price and the verb disagree, obey the verb.

King of Clubs

Patriarch · Sovereign · Aries · Watcher race

Courage organised is sovereignty.

Command that serves the work: isolate the draw, charge the weak pair, fold to the line that represents the nuts. The king who cannot fold has already left the art.

Shadow: command that has forgotten its element.

Table verb of the rank: Command of the action. Authority that can still fold. Suit office: Act. If the price and the verb disagree, obey the verb.

THE TWO KEYS

Beyond the dealBlack Joker · the Dream · runThe night that is no longer about the question.*

Pluto, in the Omega naming: the descent that sorts. At the table this is the key you did not invite. Collusion you have noticed. A stake that is no longer yours to lose. A silence that is not thought. The ace you keep is the leaving. Do not study the cheat in order to answer it. Run. Tell the house if the house is honest. If it is not, the door is the oracle.

Red Joker · the Augur · the lawful accident*Lightning across a taught sky.*

Uranus, in the Omega naming: the interruption that frees a pattern. A cooler, a one-outer, a rule you had trusted. Do not worship it and do not chase it. State what broke. If it was variance, walk when the clock says so. If it was a flaw in your line, keep the ace — the one sentence you will obey next time — and fold the rest of the mythology.

A session, in order

Before. Write the buy-in, the stop, the time, and the game you are willing to leave. Draw the train if you need a mirror. Eat. Do not sit down to repair a mood.

During. Position, hand, tell, price, exit. Hold, fold, walk, or run. Do not count the stack. Do not narrate. If you cannot state the outs or the reason for the bluff, it is a fold.

After. Count away from the table. One sentence: what you threw away correctly, and what you kept that you should have thrown. That sentence is the ace. The rest of the night can break even without you.
